

Improving Higher Education for Santa Fe Residents on August 3, 2010

On Aug. 3, Santa Fe Community College will ask voters to decide on a $35-million bond issue to provide much-needed support for the maintenance and energy-efficiency of its campus. The measure would also support construction of a Higher Education Center, a centrally-located complex in Santa Fe where the community college would partner with the state's universities to enable local students to earn advanced degrees.

$3 million of the bond issue is slated for campus building renovations, including turning a large, dirt-floored storage area into a black-box performing arts space. Please consider supporting the bond issue in August. Go to www.votesfcc.com for more information.

Thank you!

Welcome to the 2010 Spring Choral Concert

The faculty and students have been working hard to prepare this event for your enjoyment. You play an important role in the learning process of these students. Without the semester culminating in a performance, the class would be missing much authenticity and meaning. Your presence helps to motivate the students learn and sharpen their performance skills.

In addition to performing arts, SFCC's School of Arts and Design offers a variety of degrees and courses in fine arts and design, including sculpture, photography, interior design, fashion design, jewelry, fine woodworking, gallery management, printmaking, book arts and ceramics. You can even earn a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from the University of New Mexico right here on the SFCC campus. Explore your own creativity by taking one of our courses or enrolling in a degree program.

Douglas Barkey
Dean, School of Arts and Design, Santa Fe Community College

We also wish to thank:

- The SFCC Marketing and Public Relations Department for the program and publicity
- The SFCC Maintenance Department for setting up the Jemez Rooms for the performance.
- Fran Nawrocki of the SFCC Conference Center for her support and cooperation in arranging numerous technical details

A note from the director –

Our concert is the culminating event of a semester of weekly class work and choral rehearsals. The Santa Fe Community College choral program is designed to offer an educational experience with music of various styles and historical periods. We invite anyone who is eager to sing music of diverse styles, willing to commit to regular rehearsal attendance, and inspired to improve the quality of the group and their own singing, to join Chorus for the 2010 Fall Semester. ClassVoice I and III, Music Appreciation, Group Guitar, Group Piano, Music Theory, and Jazz History are also offered. For information about classes in dance, drama or music, call the School of Arts and Design at (505) 428-1731. Thank you for attending our concert and supporting our musical growth!
